BARROW GETS 14, YEARS.

KIDNAPPER OF BABY CLARK CON-VICTED AND SENTENCED.

Taken from the Courtroom to a Cell in Sing Sing Prison-Bella Anderson, the Nurse Girl Who Aided Him, Sentenced to Four Years - Mrs. Barrow's Trial. George Beauregard Barrow, the man who planned the kidnapping of Marion Clark, was convicted yesterday in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court and sentenced to fourteen years and ten months at hard labor in Sing Sing prison. He was taken to Sing Sing on an afternoon train, dressed in a convict suit and placed in a cell, where he will remain until this morning, when he will be put to work. Bella Anderson, who posed as a nurse girl under the name of Carrie Jones for the purpose of aiding Barrow in the kidnapping plot and who had pleaded guilty on Wednesday, was let off with sentence of four years because she had turned State's evidence and convinced the court that she was a tool in Barrow's hands.

The third member of the band of kidnappers.

Mrs. Addie Barrow, is still in the Tomba prison, and will be brought into the criminal branch of the Supreme Court for trial on Mon-The case of Barrow went to the jury shortly before noon, and within fifteen minutes the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Many lawyers of prominence were in the courtroom to hear Justice Fursman's charge. Three witnesses for the defence were called before this was given. These witnesses had known Barrow as the son of an Arkaneas Judge, in Little licek. They were unable to say, however, that thes heard many persons there or in New York speak well of Barrow. District Attorney Gardiner summed up on be-half of the people. He rehearsed the evidence and denounced the defendant for trying to put the responsibility of the crime upon his wife's shoulders. Mr. Howe, in summing up for Barrow, blamed Bella Anderson. He said she was trying to escape a long term in prison by putting the onus on Barrow.

Justice Fursman, in his charge, said: "On Sunday, May 21 last, a baby named Marion Clark was kidnapped in this city. It is for you to say, on the evidence presented, whether the defendant was concerned in the commission of that crime or not. Public indignation was unusually aroused in the case. but we must not allow our indignation to swerve our judgment as to whether or not the but we must not allow our indignation to swerve our judgment as to whether or not the defendant committed the crime. You are not to be excited against this man by the atrocity of the crime or by public clamor. We are to be calm, deliberate, reasonable, to do justice though the heavens fall. You are to start with the legal presumption that the defendant is not guiltry you are to give him the benefit of every reasonable doubt; and if any reasonable doubt remains after you have weighed the evidence you are to asquit him. A reasonable doubt is not any doubt; it is not a guess; it is what its term implies, something that a man can express and reason about. But if you are convinced that he is guilty then you must conviet him. The law is that juries must deal with probabilities, not possibilities. I will read to you the law on the subject of the crime charged."

After reading the law the Justice said:

You know that the defendant was any present when the child was taken, but it is not indeessary that he should have ever seen this child. If he abetted the scheme to kidnap the child he is as guilty as the woman who stole it. The bulk of testimony in this case was given by Bella Anderson, known as Carrie Jones, who stole the child. She was an accomplice, and no person can be convicted under our laws upon the testimony of an accomplice unless that testimony is corroborated. Our law says that the corroboration need only be slight. There has been some corroboration of the testimony of the accomplice; it is for you to determine its weight. That is in accordance with the decision of the Court of Appeals."

Justice Fursman related the story of the kidnapping as told by the witnesses and, reviewing the material parts of the ovidence, showed how bella Anderson's testimony had been corroborated. Referring to the testimony of the seam to the surface for any the surface said.

When the jury brought in the verdict, Mr. Howe, counsel for the defendant, made the usual motion for the polling of the jury, and after the jury had been polled he made a motion for a new trial. Justice Fursman the purpose of the polling of the property denied the motion for a new trial. motion for a new trial. Justice Fursman promptly dealed the motion for a new trial. Barrow was then brought to the bar for sentence, Justice Fursman saying that he desired to pass sentence immediately as he intended to start for his home in Troy later in the day and would not be sitting in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court next week.

County Clerk Fenny asked Barrow if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. Barrow did not reply, but stood with his arms folled.

"Barrow," said Justice Fursman, "you have been found guilty of the crime of kidnapping, a most atroguous one. I shall make an example of you. The statute prevides a maximum penalty of fifteen years in the State prison, but as the law requires prisoners to be released in prison."

Deputy Sheriff Daniel Kelly, who steed behind Barrow, placed his hand upon the prisoner's shoulder and said in a businessike tone. "Gome, follow ine."

Barrow was quietly led from the courtroom across the Bridge of Sighs to the Tombs prison. "Bella Anderson to the bar," should Court Clerk Fenny.

Barrow was quiesly led from the courtroom across the lifelize of Sighs to the Tombs prison. "Bella Anderson to the bar," shouted Court Clerk Fenny.

A minute later the woman known as Carrie Jones was brought in. She was trembling. Mr Levy, her lawyer, stepped to her side and, addressing the court, said that he knew of nothing he could say in behalf of the girl except that she had voluntarily made a confession to the District Attorney and had aided the prosecution in the case against Barrow. He saided that she was a weak-minded consumptive who could not live many years.

District Attorney Gardiner said that some mercy ought to be shown to the girl for the reasons clied by Mr. Levy.

"I have become satisfied that this girl was not the originator of this plot," said austice Fursman. "She was induced by Barrow to enter into the censpiracy. She did not agree at first, but Barrow finally overcame her scruples. I take it that she testified truthfully from beginning to end, concending nothing so far as her connection with the plot was concerned. I think she repents what she has done. The sentence of the court is that she be confined in the State prison for women at Auburn for the term of four years."

Mrs. Barrow was permitted to remain in the courtroom up to the time that her husband's case went to the jury. She wept when she was compelled to leave him. When she heard in her cell that her husband had been convicted she became hysterical. She was permitted to kiss him good-by. District Attorney Gardiner said that he would move in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court for the trial of Mrs. Barrow on Monday.

Little Rock, Ark., June 16.—Judge J. C. Barrow father of George Barrow, excressed no surprise to-day when he was told of his sen's conviction. "I expected a conviction." he said: "but, of course, I did not have any idea as to what the term would be. We have not heard a word directly from George since his arrest, and this fact led us to believe that he felt sure of his ground for a new trial. As I said, the convic

DOCTOR HAD CORONER'S SANCTION.

Mount Vernon Official Allewed Dr. Boss to Take Altimahoke's Body to Dissect. The legality of the proceedings by which the body of the little Esquimau girl, Altimahoke, who died last week in Mount Vernon, was sent to the College of Physicians and Surgeons for dissection was defended yesterday by both Dr. Franz Ross who caused it to be sent and Dr. B. B. Gallaudet, the acting head of the Anatomical Board of the college.

The college authorities have not been in clined to divulge the name of the physician who had the body sent to the college, but it was learned yesterday that the girl's body was secured by Dr. Boas. The latter is a curator in the American Museum of Natural History and is also a lecturer on physical anthropology at Columbia University. As was told in THE Sun yesterday, he is not directly connected with the College of Physicians and Surgeons Dr. Boas said last night that the body had cen sent through the proper channels.

"In the first place," he said, "the report in the Tribune that the girl was one of Peary's Esquimaux is false. The girl was one of a famly of small children that Capt. Bruce brought ily of small children that Capt. Bruce brought here from Alaska. The children were taken to Mount Vernon and recently this one developed consumption. When he placed her in the sanitarium in which she died Capt. Bruce was aware that she could not recover, nor could she be taken base to Alaska.

"Just before the child's death Capt. Bruce decided to return to Alaska. Before doing so he came to me and asked me if in the event of the girl's death it would not be in the interest of science to have the body go to some college. I thought the idea an excellent one, but Capt. Bruce forgot to make any written provision regarding the matter. When I heard of the Esquimau's death, however, I immediately wrete to Coroner Banning of written provision regarding its matter, when I heard of the Esquimau's death, however, I immediately wrete to Coroner Banning of Mount Vernon about my conversation with the Captain, and asked him to send the body to the College of Physicians and Surgeons—which he did. There were no friends to claim the body, and it would have been buried in the paupers field. I have no further interest in the matter myself, nor do I know just what the college authorities may decide to do with it, but a postmortem examination in this case would be an interesting one for science generally, and would also be of value as a means of proving that Esquimaur cannot live in this climate."

Dr. Gallaudet, who is the assistant of Dr. George S. Huntington, professor of anatomy at the college, said that he did not know before the fact was published in the newspapers that the body had been sent to the college by Dr. Boas.

"But I have no doubt," he added. "that the

the body had been sent to the college by Dr. Boas.

"But I have no doubt," he added, "that the body arrived there with Coroner Banning's permission and in such a case the question of illegality cannot be raised. Bodies in the city have to come to us from the Morgue, generally, but in the case of those out of town the Coroner by law directs as to where they shall go. Nothing can be done with the body until Dr. Huntington returns as dissections have to have his expressed permission. In the meantime it has been put in cold storage.

Frof. Putnam of the Anthropological Department of the Natural History Museum has denied the original report that it was intended to have the body embaimed and to make a mummy of it for the museum.

regimental veterans, and in the other company atreets there are entertainments and fun without end.

The Second Battalion returned from its practice march this morning at 10 o'clock, having broken camp at Lake Oscawana at 6 o'clock this morning. The roads were in splendid condition after the rain, and the march back was easy and comfortable. This departure in the scheme of instruction has proved wonderfully pleasing to the men, who have thoroughly enjoyed their outings, and officers and men alike have only to regret that the whole week could not have been devoted to it instead of three days for each battalion.

The soldiers of the Twenty-third leave tomorrow immediately after the arrival of the Seventh, and they expect to reach New York about 6:30 o'clock in the evening. They will take the Third avenue clevated to South ferry and will march from the foot of Atlantic avenue to their armory in the uniform they wore in the field.

This morning the Third Battery had a riot drill, being ordered by Gen. Ree to turn out immediately and defend the State property at the rifle range from the depredations of a mob. Within thirty minutes they were down on the range pouring a galling fire into the face of the mob.

MUNICIPAL ASSEMBLY TACKLES THE SERVANT GIRL QUESTION.

The Profession of Domestic Service to Be Elevated-Noble Pioneer Work of the German Housewives' Society-Radical Measures Said to Be Under Consideration

In the intervals between providing suitable street signs for improsts and holding up ap-propriations to the disgust and wrath of the emptroller, the Municipal Assembly occasionally gets down into the arena of action and struggles with some of the strenuous problems of life. There is now impending for that august body a severe mental struggle, for it has formal y committed itself to the servant girl question and it proposes to bring all the energies of the combined Aldermanic intellect to bear upon this important and far-reaching subject. To the German Housewives Society into the city's legislative halls, as it presented yesterday a petition requesting that "the Municipal Assembly cause an investigation into existing conditions, with a view of better-ing the general surroundings of hired help, of creating between mistress and servant a more thorough appreciation of the necessity and advantage of mutual interest and of protecting each against unfairness and injustice practiced by one against the other."

The German Housewives' Society, as stated in the petition, has a membership of "over 400, among whom are many well-known and prominent in the Commercial World, in Professional Life and in Social Circles," and its purposes are to provide servants for employers and employers for servants, to advance friendly intercourse between the two parties and to operate a school for cooking and general housework. It also gives prizes to servants who stay in one place for a certain period, but doesn't give prizes to the employers who condoesn't give prizes to the employers who con-trive to keep the servants. In view of the suc-cess of its attempts hitherto, the society has reselved to broaden its scope, and to that end it induced Alderman Goodman to present its petition, which he did yesterday, also offering a resolution instructing the Law Committee to give the matter consideration, nold public hearings and make a report to the board. This resolution was adopted and the dates of the hearings will be determined and announced later.

Meanwhile the opportunity of eatering upon a new sphere of Aldermanic usefulness has so appealed to the city fathers that they spent considerable time vesterday afternoon in devising wars and means for the accomplishment of the results so carnestly desired by the German Housewives' Society. It is alleged by persons in touch with the Municipal Assembly that the following resolutions and ordinances we in present of preparation, though the exact

It is said that much other philanthropic leg-siation on this subject is in preparation, and hat if the aims of the Municipal Assembly are ully achieved, the solution of the servant problem will be reached by attaining a con-lition of affairs in which a person of good udgment would rather be a servant girl than Involving the Expenditure of Money. There were only forty-three Aldermen at the board meeting yesterday, and no business involving the expenditure of money could be transacted. Mr. McCall, leader of the Tammany Hall forces, tried to call up the Long Island Water Supply bond issue of $570,000. He asked for unanimous consent to its consideration, intending to make it a special order, but Mr Gaffney (Tam.) objected, and the matter went over. Mr. Gaffney made no explanation of his objection.

Mr. Woodward (Rep.), who on Tuesday told a reporter of THE SUN that in case a mandamus was issued compelling the Municipal Assembly to get on the held up bond issues he would do as he damn pleased," rose to a question of personal privilege yesterday and read a statement explaining his position. Woodward said that he did not deny the truth of the quotation, but that he did not intend to defy the courts or te express any contempt for them. He held that the courts had he authority to compel a member of the Municipal Assembly to vote in a certain way, and that the vote of each member must be decided upon by himself according to his individual inferent. Mr. Woodward said that if the Municipal Assembly was a merely ministerial body, that fact should be established at once. His statement was incorporated in the records.

Mr. Wafer (Benn. Brooklyn) got an opportunity to bitch into the Comptroller on a motion by Mr. McInness (Ben. Brooklyn), that he Commissioner of Water Supply be requested to give some information as to the feasibility of taking water from the East River for fire and sprinkling purposes in Brooklyn. Mr. Wafer contended that the expense would be too great, and then said:

If at the seasions then a disposition is shown to treat the bond issues in a reasonable and busines-like manner, no drastic measures will be resorted to. Assurances have been given, as told in The Suveresterday, that lead the city authorities to believe that there will not be any necessity for an appeal to the courts. All however, depends on the action of the Municipal Assembly.

DEPARTMENT STORES FIGHT IT. Hearing on Councilman Sulzer's Proposed

Ordinance to Tax Them. Councilman Herman Sulzer's proposed ordinance to tax each department of department stores $500 was considered by the Law Comnittee of the Council yesterday. The proprietors of department stores had been invited o attend the hearing, and Job Hedges apsared to represent John Wanamaker, Mr. Hedges argued that the proposed license fee yould be in the nature of taxation, and that was a question whether the Municipal Asmbly had the power to impose such a tax, which, in its nature, was discriminating, He was followed by John W. Mr. Suizer advecated the ordinance, which, he said, was intended to prevent the big shops from crowding the small dealers out of business. A delegation from the Retail Butchers' Association also advocated it, and John H. Smith urged the committee to report a measure which would compel the great stores to go out of business. He also said that the big stores led women to drink by affording opportunities for them to get liquor without being seen, and were thus the cause of much vice.

ALDERMAN SIEFKE'S SUCCESSOR. James J. Dunphy, an Anti-Sheehan Man, Gets the Place. James J. Dunphy, the candidate of the Goodwin faction of the Tammany Hall forces in the Ninth Assembly district, was elected Alderman yesterday, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry Siefke. Mr. Dunphy was selected by Councilman Goodwin and his friends on Thursday evening, and his name was presented to the board at yesterday's meeting by John T. McCall, the Tammany leader on the floor. Forty-one members were present. Thirty-nine of them voted in favor of seating Mr. Dunphy. Aldermen Stewart and Ackerman (Reps., Brooklyn.) voted against In explaining his vote Mr. Stewart said: "I am in favor of filling the vacancy in this board at the proper time and in the proper way, but I am opposed to filling it when we have hardly left the cemetery after burying our late colleague. Mr. Dunphy was sworn in by Mayor Van Mr. Dunphy was sworn in by Mayor Van Wyck, and was introduced to the board by President Woods. John C. Sheehan, the Executive Committeeman from the Ninth district, had no candidate for the office. According to the precedents in Tammany Hall the district leader is entitled to name the successor to a man who dies in office. It was expected that the first test of strength between the Sheehan forces and the followers of Councilman Goodwin would come over the selection of an Alderman. The Goodwin leaders have accepted Mr. Sheehan's neglect to name a candidate as an evidence of weakness. Mr. Sheehan's friends said yesterday that they did not want to scramble for a dead man's shoes.

Alderman Dunphy was appointed on the committees on which Mr. Siefke served. As Mr. Siefke's chair is draped in crape another seat was assigned to Mr. Dunphy.

WOMAN DIES UNIDENTIFIED. Was Found Wandering About Followed by a Group of Children. The Jersey City police are investigating the case of an elderly, unidentified woman who died in the City Hospital at a late hour on Thursday night. She had been seen during the afternoon wandering about the Lehigh Valley Railroad freight yards. She had the appearance of being intoxicated, and when she walked over Pacific avenue toward Grand street she was followed by a crowd of children. It is said that some of them threw stones at her.

Toliceman Waish saw her and the children at Incide avenue and Grand street, and after driving the children away had the woman removed to the City Hospital. She became unconscious there and died without disclosing her identity. The physicians have been unable to determine the cause of her death. She was about 50 years old and was dressed in black with a light red shawl thrown over her shoulders. She wore a black straw hat. She had been exposed to the heavy ministorm in the afterneon and her clothing was saturated, County Physician Converse will make an autorsy.

The Increase Is Said to Mean That the Control of All the Standard Interests

Will Pass to the New Jersey Corporation. TRENTOY, N. J., June 16,-The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey filed a certificate today in the office of the Secretary of State amending its original articles of incorporation so as to increase the amount of the company's capital steek from $10,000,000 to $110,000,000, The certificate is signed by Henry M. Flagler. President, and L. D. Clarke, Secretary of the company. There are appended also the signatures of the owners of 67.631 shares of stock, which is somewhat in excess of the two-thirds of the whole number of shares required by the New Jersey law to increase the stock issue. John D. Rockefeller's name appears as the owner of 26,411 shares of the company's stock. William Bockefeller is named as the owner of 1,336 shares; O. H. Payne, 4,112 shares; Charles W. Harkness, 5,032 shares; C. M. Pratt, trustes, 5,141 shares, and H. M. Flagler, 2,879 shares.

The new articles of incorporation provide that $10,000,000 of the stock is to be preferred and entitled to a dividend not to exceed 1% per cent, quarterly. It is provided that the stock already existing shall be preferred stock and that common stock may be issued in ex change for it. The directors are empowered to use any surplus earnings for the purchase of property or the company's stock, and the property or stock so purchased shall not be made available for paying dividends unless the directors first "sanction; such action. directors are further authorized to appoint an Executive|Committee of three, with full power, to manage the company's business. State's fee for filing this certificate is $20,000, and a check for the amount accompanied the

M. F. Elliott, attorney for the Standard Oil Company, made the formal statement at the office of the company, 28 Broadway, yesterday afternoon that papers would be filed at Trenton before the close of the day increasing the capital of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey from $10,000,000 to $110,000,000. Mr. Elliott declined to state the reason for the increase, which, he said, had been authorized at a meeting of the company's stockholders held at Bayonne on Wednesday.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is one of the component companies of the original Standard Oil Trust. There are also Standard Oil companies of the States of New York. Indiana, Kentucky and Ohlo, the last seing the oldest. As understood in Wall street yesterday the increase in the capital stock of the New Jersey company means that the control of all the Standard Oil properties will eventually pass to the New Jersey company by an exchange of stock. The liquidation of the Standard Oil Trust, which has been progressing for several years, is now said to be about completed.

ing for several years, is now said to be about completed.

Under the plan of reorganization, as told in Wail street, the present constituent companies are not to lose their identity, but will retain their present forms, this being necessary by reason of the diversit, of the interests involved and the different State charters under which they conduct their business. There is nothing, however, that would prevent stockholders in the present companies from selling or exchanging their stock for the stock of the New Jersey company. The last named company would in that event obtain control of all. According to report the old trust certificates, or stock in the various companies, are to be exchanged for the increased stock of the New Jersey company on the basis of share for share. The original trust certificates amounted to $597,250,000s, so that a balance of new stock would remain which, for the present, is to stay in the treasure. $17,250,000, so that a balance of new stock would remain which, for the present, is to stay in the treasury.

BIG BLAZE IN TROY.

A Livery Stable and Several Shops and

TROY, June 16 .- Nearly half a block of old buildings at Sixth avenue and Hoosiek street are in ruins as the result of a fire which started this morning at 3 o'clock in the livery stable of James Gorman, 47 Hoosick street. The livery stable was a two-story wooden structure and burned flereely, soon connecting with other buildings south of it. A general alarm was sounded and the entire fire department was called out. A number of tenement houses were soon on fire and the police ran from house to house rousing the occupants, many of whom escaved in their night clothes. Policemen Sheridan and Cahill distinguished themselves in rescuing people from the burning buildings. Gorman and family occupied apartments in the livery buildings and were carried out nearly suffocated. The livery stable was filled with horses and the noise made by the poor animals as the fire reached them was terrible. Eleven were suffocated or burned to death.

The burned buildings include Gorman's livery stable, Miller's blacksmith shop. Fred Mace's paint shop on Sixth avenue, Samuel Hall's fish market, John Wyck's barber shop, Miss Watson's furnishing stere. Friedell's bakery, George Williams's candy store and John Lusk's barber shop. The loss is estimated at $15,000, on which there is but little were soon on fire and the police ran from mated at $15,000, on which there is but little insurance.

Bridge Trains Delayed.

Bridge traffic was partially blocked for nearly an hour yesterday morning through the de-railing of the engine of an elevated train on the Fifth avenue line at the curved terminal in Brooklyn. As the engine was rounding the curve the rear trucks of the engine ran over the guard rails, bringing the train to a sudden stop. Many of the passengers in the four cars were scared, but no one was injured. It re-quired nearly an hour to remove the engine and cars.

NO WITNESSES AGAINST EX-CONVICT.

He Stabbed Four Mer, but They Disappear When They Are Wanted to Prosecute Him. There was an unusual display of activity yesterday in the crowd of steerers, heelers and "lighthouses" who spend their days around the Essex Market Police Court and their nights in and around Allen street, on account of the arrest of Henry Elliott of 40 Forsyth street, the ex-convict who ran amuck with a butcher knife on Thursday night in Essex street and cut four young men with it. The activity of the heelers, who in their daylight haunts in and around the court pose and are regarded as successful politicians of "de Ate," had a curious effect in that remarkable temple of the law when Elliott's case came up for disposal.

Ordinarily, when anybody on the lower east side is beaten by anybody else and the assail-ant is arrested the prosecution of the case is vigorously pushed. When Elliott was arrested on. Thursday night his four victims went to the Eldridge street police station and had their wounds attended to by an ambulance surgeon. In the station they loudly declared that they would prosecute Elliott to the full extent of the law. According to their statements, because he was called an ex-conviet. Elliott had selzed a knife from a butcher show and had slashed with it right and left in the crowd. When the assailant was_arraigned in the police court yesterday morning Lawver Henry. J. Goldsmith asked for an adjournment of the case until late in the afternoon. The four wounded men had been seen in Essex street before the case was called, but they were not in court. Policeman Leroy S. Minnerly, who arrested Elliott, asked Magistrate Flammer to give him subpornas to insure their appearance at the hearing in the afternoon, as it had been intimated to him that they would not come to court. The subplemas were granted, but when the case was called several hours later the policeman reported that he had been unable to find any of the victims to serve the papers on. He had found that three of the young men did live at the addresses they had given in the police station, he said, but the fourth was not known at the address he gave. Lawyer Goldsmith asked for the discharge of Elliott, as no complainants were present.

"I would like to have this case continued." of the law. According to their statements.

charge of Elliott, as no complainants were present.

said the policeman, "so that I may have a chance to find these men. I ask your Honor to give me new subpensa for them."

"Oh, your Honor," said Goldsmith, with a smile. "they wen't show up. None of them wants to press a complaint."

"Why?" asked the Magistrate.

"Why they are all friends of this prisoner, and they know that he only acted in self-defence," replied Goldsmith. "Elliott got a good beating himself."

The Magistrate refused to discharge Elliott and continued the case until to-day. He also gave the policeman the new subpensa; remarking that if the complainants could not be produced, to-day he would have to dispose of the case. A broad smile overspread the countenances of the Allen street contingent.

Elliott only recently was discharged from the penitentiary, where he served a sentence of more than a year.

Porte Ricans Hurrah for the Flag.

Bakewell of Lafayette Post, 140, G. A. B., describing the enthusiasm with which the fings sent by the post have been received in Porto Rico by the natives. Gen Faton says he has been in every municipality on the island, and been in every municipality on the island, and has seen the flag saluted and heard the school children sing "America" in English with more enthusiasm, even, than it is sung in schools in America. The American flag is being displayed on the island on all occasions. English is taught in the schools to 10,000 children, and they are studying the map of the United States. Patriotic songs are also taught in all the schools, and the children are enthusiastic Americans.
